Hello from Vice President Mark

Hope everyone is staying warm. Pretty quiet in the car world.

We will be having the Valentine Super at Jack's Steakhouse.

Please let us know if there are any activities going on for the cars.

Mark Engwicht

Launching of the SS William Clay Ford—the last of Ford Motor Company's fleet of iron ore carriers named after Henry Ford's grandsons—in May 1933. The first two were the SS Henry Ford II and the SS Benson Ford, both of which began work in 1924. Commissioned at the end of the Ford flathead V-8 era, the SS William Clay Ford was almost 650 feet long and capable of carrying 2,000,000 tons of iron ore from the mines in Minnesota to the River Rouge plant in Dearborn. For over 30 years, the William Clay Ford did its part in keeping the great Ford factory supplied with steel, but it also did its civic duty as well. On the night of November 10, 1975, the Great Lakes freighter, SS Edmonds Fitzgerald, was reported lost, and the William Clay Ford was one of the two vessels involved in the initial search. Although debris, lifeboats and rafts were recovered, none of the 29-man crew was found.
